For the information of the public, and in order to get at the mind of the "political editor" of the Magnet and Tribune, we publicly and explicitly say that when we speak of "the sticky little editor" we do not have any reference to "the ponderous scribe" of that paper. It would certainly be a mistake of any honest man to apply any such title as the former to the individual who goes by, with such vast exuberance of type, muscle, and brains, the "heavy" editorials on the second page of that paper. Oh no; he's never sticky.

It is asserted that though by the fall of Tammany New York got rid of one "Ring," it gave place to another. Figures just published show that the expense of running the city government has been increasing at the rate of from three to four million dollars per year since. On behalf of the present incumbents of office the plea is set up that this enlarged cost is owing to the fact that they have to meet the legacies of debts left them by Tweed & Co. Still, the local press clamors for a thorough examination of the finance, public works, charities and correction, and fire departments. One journal says: "At the rate at which we are now blindly rushing on, we must soon reach a disastrous end, and it is time that the taxpayers should receive some protection."

Does the "ponderous scribe" desire to drag Farmer Jack's newspaper record before the public again? We had thought that we were experiencing a very rare amount of charity in saying nothing about that horny-handed middleman's efforts to puff himself into notoriety last spring, but his organ and his "ponderous scribe" would rather have that matter ventilated again we're ready. We still have in our possession the manuscript of his editorial, written for the Marco News, in which he endeavors to make himself appear as a hero and a martyr.

These Democratic papers are crowing over the Democratic victory in Alabama. No wonder the Ku Klux carried that State. In Richmond county, in 1872, there were 2,274 votes cast for Lincoln. On Wednesday last, about 10,000 Republican votes were cast in that county. What has become of all these Republican votes? Have they joined the White Leaguers, or were they intimidated and kept from voting?

The "ponderous scribe" of the Magnet and Tribune still insists that the Magnolia and Redwood in Missouri is the "Opposition ticket." If Democracy and Opposition mean the same thing then is the "ponderous scribe" correct, for once in his life. But, unfortunately, is the position of the p.s., the convention which nominated that ticket.

FT. MADISON, IA., Oct. 20.—Gen'l Ord has paraded 22 soldier prisoners in the Iowa penitentiary. Lieut. Riley arrived this morning with a guard of 40 men from Cincinnati. They leave to-morrow morning for Ft. Leavenworth via Quincy with 61 military prisoners from the penitentiary for the military prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

MONTPELIER, VT., Oct. 20.—The Legislature to-day elected Geo. F. Edmunds U. S. Senator from Vermont for six years from the 1st of March next.

FINANCING AND HOUSEKEEPING.

From the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Mrs. Livermore thinks that women who earn her own money will not be likely to give $200 for a lace handkerchief, and Julia Ward Howe attributes a great part of the weakness of women to their ignorance of financial affairs. Both call upon women to shake off their ignorance and idleness, and become helpers and partners in their husbands' business. A great many men will be induced to do so at the same time others will do it, and so on in the field.

Very well, but, a good deal of us, we presume a majority, of men do not look for or desire the assistance of their wives in money matters. They like them for sympathizers, but not for counselors. They keep the home, or try to, as a sort of haven into which they can fly, when the storm howls without, and where they can forget the angry wintering and boat rock. They keep an "establishment" including a wife, much as they keep a handsome "turn-out" for their comfort, and not as a paying investment. This does not preclude the idea of affection, for the man who never lifts his troubles to his wife may very easily be more unselfish in his devotion than one who is constantly keeping her nerves unstrung by gloomy accounts of disasters about to overtake him. That in many instances he would find a cheerful helper and an able one for the asking, we do not doubt; but so long as the work of life is divided as now, the husband providing the means while the wife attends the home, it looks too much like cowardice and like a shirking of his share of the work for a man to call upon his wife to take a portion of his burden from his shoulders.

Let us be informed also upon another matter. Does experience prove that women, who have what is generally considered the masculine trait of money-making, make at the same time good housekeepers? Can they cook and sew, and patch and mend? We do not mean the few like Mrs. Howe and Livermore and Malloy, who are acknowledged patterns for wives as well as for financial partners, but the great mass of those who are advocates of woman's "emancipation," and who too frequently make the public distrust, if not oppose, the scheme by which all women shall be modelled after them. We ask the question in a spirit of inquiry.

We are not posted as to the actual facts, and we would like to know if such ladies are generally good mothers and good wives (not "slaves"), including in these terms those virtues usually possessed by good women? The facts are important. There is a feeling that "strong-minded" women, which term seems to embrace above particularly competent to take care of themselves, are lacking in the graces and virtues which adorn their less confident or less talented sisters. The ladies mentioned above know from their experience whether, as a rule, this is true; and if it is or is not, they owe it to the public to tell frankly what their observation has taught them.

Our government has recently concluded two treaties with Turkey, one having reference to the extradition of criminals and the other to naturalization. Discussing these treaties, the Leavenworth Herald calls attention to the entire reciprocity, for the Ottoman Government yields nothing which that of the United States does not concede, and vice versa. In the treaty of naturalization Turkey has for the first time recognized the principle that her subjects naturalized according to American law become de facto citizens of the United States, and America reciprocates, says the Herald, the whole being "in accordance with the first principles of international law." Now this must be very gratifying to all interested, for international law has so many "first principles" that any arrangement in accordance with them all must, to say the least, be of "most comprehensive character." The extradition treaty found its origin in the court of law, and the grand jury, which found a true bill against them, was not properly constituted.

After recess, Assistant Attorney General Hill, for the Government, filed a motion to the plea of abatement. Judge Riddle, the special Government counsel, said the same question had been before the court three times, and unless the court proposed to reverse its former decisions the counsel for the Government would not argue the case. Judge Humphreys said he would hear the argument in support of the plea, and if any new points were presented he would then hear from the Government.

Henkle received and sustained the plea of abatement and argued that the law had not been complied with and claimed that citizens could sue legally tried on an indictment found by a body not drawn or selected in strict conformity to law. David said he would not trouble the court with an argument pro forma for the purpose of saving his point, and I was willing to take the decision of the court.

A committee was appointed to memorialize Congress, and a standing executive committee of twenty appointed. The convention then adjourned sine die.

Mr. Hill suggested that the court rule pro forma on the point of overruling the abatement plea, and let the case proceed. The counsel might then note on the execution and argue the abatement before final bench.

Mr. David consented, but Henkle insisted upon the ruling of the court upon the merits of the plea in abatement.

Judge Humphreys said he would sustain the demurrer, but if at any time during the trial the court should see this is an erroneous decision, would reverse it. He would not enter the cause.

His own recognition was taken for that amount, and the court adjourned.

FT. MADISON, IA., Oct. 20.—Gen'l Ord has paraded 22 soldier prisoners in the Iowa penitentiary. Lieut. Riley arrived this morning with a guard of 40 men from Cincinnati. They leave to-morrow morning for Ft. Leavenworth via Quincy with 61 military prisoners from the penitentiary for the military prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

MONTPELIER, VT., Oct. 20.—The Legislature to-day elected Geo. F. Edmunds U. S. Senator from Vermont for six years from the 1st of March next.

An analysis of the vote in Congress upon two propositions, in which the friends are interested, shows very plainly upon which of the great political parties they must depend to aid in controlling railway monopolies. Upon the resolution of Hon. J. Q. Smith, a Republican Congressman from Ohio, which declares the right and duty of Congress "to regulate commerce among the States so as to protect that portion of our internal commerce which is among the several States from all unjust or oppressive tolls, taxes, obstructions, or other burdens whether imposed by railroads, canals and combinations thereof, or by other common carriers, who engaged in instrumentalities of such portion of the commerce of the people," the vote stood, for its adoption 158 Republicans and 14 Democrats.

The bill introduced by Mr. McCrary, Republican from Iowa, carrying out the principle of the above resolution, the vote stood for its adoption, Republicans 116, Democrats 5.

THINGS in the abstract, and things in the concrete, are sometimes very different. In the abstract, the American government is a noble and a beautiful conception. The idea of men governing themselves with the sole object of securing the greatest good to the greatest number, recognizing no master but their own will, nominating and electing their own officers, and ordering all things with the honest purpose of intelligent freedom, is very fine in the abstract. So are the ballot and universal suffrage, excellent things in the abstract. But when it comes to carrying elections by such means as those recently used in this city and district, by the importation of voters, the purchase of men-like cattle, the quartering them by hundreds on the city treasury, the organization of "Poor Man's Leagues," promising a cash dividend to all who vote for a certain candidate, and by the unabashed use of every means to defraud the ballot-box, it is time for honest men to stop and ask themselves what we are coming to.

The Vermont legislature will begin to ballot for United States Senator on Tuesday next. From present appearance the most probable inference is that Senator Edmunds will be nominated without much opposition. There is some talk about other candidates, the most prominent of whom are Congressmen Willard and ex-Senator Smith & Stewart. At ordinary times the friends of Judge Edmunds would feel perfectly confident of success, but the unexpected fate of Judge Poland makes us a little nervous, and they confess that the Vermont freeman is this year a very uncertain voter.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—A trial of the conspirators began to-day. Whiteley asked a postponement of his case till the next term, which was denied. Negotiation sought for, a postponement to give him time to produce the testimony of ex-Solicitor Banfield and another witness now dead. His request was denied and his recognition declared forfeited.

At nine o'clock this evening the trial party left for St. Louis, where they will remain a few days, and proceed to Washington and New York.

LOUISVILLE, KY., October 20.—Some twenty-seven delegates, representing Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky and Indiana, to the Capital Removal Convention, met in the public library hall this morning and organized, with Judge John Elliott, of Kentucky, as president. Various addresses were made by delegates upon the subject in hand, and the convention adjourned to meet in the parlors of the Galt House in the evening.

At the evening session resolution were passed expressing the necessity of the removal of the national capital to some point in the Mississippi Valley, and calling upon Congress to take action in that direction.

A committee was appointed to memorialize Congress, and a standing executive committee of twenty appointed. The convention then adjourned sine die.

At the close of the trial of the considerable time that these two treatises were signed at Constantinople, a protocol was also signed on behalf of the United States, relating to the tenure of landed property by foreign subjects, to which our government has not until now adhered.

LEEDS has eighteen newspapers,

among others the "Nishinshinjishi," the "Tokionkishihi Schimbun," and the "Chimbashi." The "Tokion" is the "Tribune" of the place, and the "Chimbashi" the "Times," but for our private reading give us the "Nishinshinjishi" and the "Schimbun."

Mr. Riddle asked that Whitley be required to give bail in the sum of $10,000 for his appearance from day to day for trial.

His own recognizance was taken for that amount, and the court adjourned.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 20.—Eighteen indictments were brought in by the grand jury to-day. It is stated that some of the murders committed in the territory years ago are being investigated, but it is probable that most of the indictments found are for polygamy. The News this evening computes the number of polygamists in the Territory at $1,000 men, 3,000 women and 9,000 children, and the cost and loss by punishment of all at $2,000,000, and that the courts would have around them 3,000 crying women and 9,000 crying children.

The Daily Republican.

Wednesday Evening, Oct. 21.

The DAILY REPUBLICAN will be delivered to subscribers in one copy of the Twenty-Cent Price. Local Notices will be inserted at Five Cents per line for the first insertion, and Five Cents per line for each subsequent insertion, with time advanced or delayed, upon application.

TO DIRECT SUBSCRIBERS.

Subscriptions to the DAILY REPUBLICAN will be collected every Saturday, at the place of business, in full, unless otherwise directed.

We would be much obliged if our subscribers would inform the carrier at what place they desire their paper to be left.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

Good roads for business men and pleasure seekers who visit that city.

Trade largely in dry goods.

Fresh cranberries at Imbedon's.

Our City Hall of drainage is perfect.

Moonlight rambles were in order last night.

Migrating birds point southward these days.

These are nice nights for studying the stars.

New chestnuts have made their appearance in the market.

Try those superb sugars Nodder's is selling so cheap.

Trouble looms ahead—house cleaning, putting up stores, and such.

Prayer meetings at all the churches this evening, the public invited.

For a superior article of legal paper, go to L. J. Davis & Co.'s book-store.

Kitchen has pure Java coffee, newly roasted.

Shady sides of buildings are sought to-day by gentrymen of leisure.

Fast driving in the business portion of town is a growing evil that should be checked.

Nearly all the tramp printers are now going southward to save the expense of an overcoat.

Hunting is now the chief amusement with those who have plenty of leisure time.

Business with the shoemakers is liveling up, and work in their lines is becoming more plentiful.

People buy their sugar-cooked hams of J. Ulrich & Co.

Little brown jugs may be seen by the scores in front of the establishments of our grocery dealers.

Everybody should look out about buying chickens with the cholera while the disease is prevalent in poultry yards.

Lively men report that business is not as lively in their line as it was a short time since.

The poundmaster is needed in the western part of the city, to take up stock which runs loose at least half of the time.

The time with a few of our manufacturers is a full half hour faster than the regulator, in order to run ten hours a day if possible.

The horse-power wood-sawer made a stand at Roach & McReynold's store to-day and cleared away the large pile of wood standing there.

News agents who travel on the various railroads which center in this city, make most of their purchases by wholesale from our merchants.

Dogs are getting uncomfortably plenty, on which account a shooting proclamation from the Mayor would be generally acceptable.

Mosquitos tried to get up a concert last night, but their number was small and their voices were cracked and feeble. Age, and cold weather, are evidently weakening their vocal powers.

The Rev. Dr. (?) G. W. P. Miller, with all the other titles, has been set down by his colored brethren at the champion talkist of Decatur.

The Illinois Central Railroad will soon run two passenger trains each way. Passenger cars on freight trains will then be hauled off.

Dealers in the little towns near Decatur and within one or two counties of Macon county buy their goods at whole sale from our merchants.

Winter Opening of Fashionable Millinery, at Mrs. L. A. Dunnings, 13 Water street, Wednesday, Oct. 28th, 1874. 17-dm

"Shiny" clubs are forming in some parts of the city. Several of the members will be walking lame from the effects of a blow received from a shillalah in the hands of their opponents.

Some of the parties who have been out to gather hickory nuts, have had their operations cut short by the appearance of the owners of the premises upon the scene.

The students at the Telegraphic Institute here who have charge of the offices in our hotels, receive a considerable number of messages to be sent every day.

Warren & Durfee's big safe was securely anchored in its new quarters last night, after a hard day's work in effecting its transfer, somewhat after the style of moving a building.

Roger McWade, the actor who played "Rip Van Winkle" here last winter, and so pleased the Decatur people, is to play in Jacksonville next Friday. If he should make Decatur another visit he would be greeted with a crowded house.

Numbers of overgrown boys loaf around the streets of Decatur daily "waiting for something to turn up," who have not the least idea of how they would make their own support. What little money they do contrive to get is spent in carousing and drinking. For all such a bright future may be seen—bright (?) indeed.

Ladies' Furnishing Goods—The best assort stock, and at the lowest possible prices, at Goldsboro's.

Many of our merchants have now signs painted on the fences along the streets, and the signs are very deviating from the original, and supply others as to what would change the meaning from what it was first intended to be vulgar.

Work is progressing finely on the new Court House, which will be a very comely structure in its exterior appearance, and we understand that it is the intention of the committee to finish up the interior as quickly as possible, in order to correspond with the outside appearance.

Business men are now buying up stock with a promise of taking away what they purchase in two or three weeks. By this means they succeed in getting a large drove bought before they ship any, and then save much trouble.

Emmett George Tucker, Esq.,

of Chicago, is the popular hotel with business men and pleasure seekers who visit that city.

Mr. L. M. Britton, of Kentucky, mother of Secretary Weston, arrived from the north yesterday.

Jacksonville, where she has been visiting recently, Mr. B. O. McReynolds, and is accompanied by his son, Mr. B. O. McReynolds, and is accompanied by his wife, Mrs. B. O. McReynolds.
